VOLUME 20, NO. 39 — CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA — FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1915

No Top or Bottom Rail. Won't Sag or Bag. Costs Less.

This cut showing the "Old" and the "New" poultry fence emphasizes the beauty, simplicity and economical points in TRIMESH. Note that in the latter there are no top or base rail boards, no overhead netting and that but two posts (16 feet apart) are used.

FARMERS UNION BRANCH

Some of the precautions we take in producing "Quality" Milk.

1. Our herd is tuberculin tested and the animals are kept in a healthy condition.
2. We keep the hind quarters and udders of our cows clipped, thus eliminating the hair from the milk.
3. The milker wears a clean white suit when milking and handling the milk.
4. The cows are thoroughly brushed and the udders washed before each milking.
5. We use the Gurler Sanitary Milking pail, thus doing away with any dirt that might "get past" our other precautions.
6. The milk is bottled in sterilized bottles and delivered in a closed wagon.

Mr. B. K. Denbigh and family have come down from Berkeley to live on Sunny Oaks avenue for the summer. They are so pleased with the Campbell schools that they have decided to come now and start the children attending school at once.

A joint social evening was spent Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Bohnett, by the three clubs, the Cambrian, the N. and S. Club of Los Gatos Road, and Our Avenue Club of Johnson Avenue. A general "good visit" was enjoyed and light refreshments were served cafeteria style.

"Yes, Watson," said Sherlock Holmes with a broad grin, "I am glad to know that you are going to purchase a box of chocolates at KING'S and present them to Miss Saunders this evening."

"But, my dear fellow," I replied in astonishment, "how the devil did you guess?"

"I don't guess, Watson, I deduct. Listen. I just saw you pin a rose in your button hole. Miss Saunders gave you that rose. That prompted you to think of her. Then you thought how sweet she was. That word 'sweet' made you think of KING'S and from there you will go to her. Am I right?"

I had to admit that he was.

The Junior School

I have been much interested in the talk of the needs of our public schools in this town, and have a plan I would like to propose.

More and more this idea of three departments of our public school system is being adopted by the progressive people of today in the educational world. The three departments are the Grammar, Junior and High Schools, and I have thought it might help us to solve our problem here.

The idea is this: to take the 7th and 8th grades of our Grammar Schools and the Freshman class of our High school and form what is called the Junior school. It appeals to the people for these reasons:

1st. It removes the larger boys and girls from the Grades and leaves the smaller children by themselves.

2nd. It tides over the break between the Grades and the High School and thus influences more children to take a High School course.

And 3rd. With us it would relieve the over-crowded condition of our local schools.

I would propose that the four districts, composing our High School district, unite to build this new building, putting it at the back of our ample school grounds, and beside the rooms needed for the 7th and 8th Grades from all the four districts and the Freshman class in the High School, providing room for our Manual Training and Commercial Departments and also for a Domestic Science department when we can afford it.

Fraternal Aid Union

Palm Leaf Union No. 560 met in regular session Saturday evening, March 27, 1915. The Union decided to hold meetings only once a month hereafter during the summer; the 4th Saturday night; beginning with the next meeting which will be held April 24th, 1915.

Two new beneficiary members were elected to join the Union one by card and one by initiation. Bro. Dosh was reported as improving slowly. Sister and Bro. Brandenburg reported having a very delightful time at Palo Alto. The next social meeting of the Unions of this district will be held in Mountain View April 19th, Saratoga having charge of the program.

A committee was appointed to arrange a program for next meeting night. Sister Minnie Lewis is chairman and will be ably assisted by Sisters Bulmore and Lanphear. They promise a very interesting program and good time. All members are urged to be present.

After the business meeting it being Childrens' night; a fine program was given. The reading by Sister Lewis was exceedingly interesting. A vocal solo by Lillian Gard, recitation by Eva Robinson, readings by Virginia Isham, and Evelyn Henry and a piano solo by Olga Evans were greatly enjoyed. Following the program ice-cream and cake were served in the banquet room; then the children had their games, the winners receiving dainty little prizes. Each child present was remembered with an easter egg.

Great credit is due the committee who had charge of Childrens' Night.

Passed Away

The funeral services of Perry Francis Farrington of Santa Cruz was held in San Jose, Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Santa Cruz Elks.

Mr. Farrington was formerly a druggist in Campbell, living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Farrington on Hicks avenue. He was a member of Charity Lodge F. & A. M.

He is survived by his wife, Flora Farrington, his parents and brother, Sidney.

That Sinful Printer

Unobserved and unannounced the president of a church society entered the composing room just in time to hear these words issue from the mouth of the boss printer:

"Billy, go to the 'devil' and tell him to finish that 'murder' he began this morning. Then 'kill' William J. Bryan's Youngest Grandchild,' and dump the 'Sweet Angel of Mercy' into the hellbox. Then make up that 'Naughty Parisan Actress' and lock up 'The Lady in Her Boudoir.'

Horrified the good woman fled from that place of sin, and now her children wonder why they are not allowed to play with the printer's youngster.

You will want something extra nice for the Easter dinner. It will be a good time to try BEATTY'S MARSHMALLOW CREME as a help in making cakes and other good things.

MARSHMALLOW CREME is new to most Campbell housekeepers, but is not a new product. Perhaps we have been a little negligent in not introducing this fine article to our patrons before this. If so, we apologize.

We don't expect to make a fortune selling Marshmallow Creme. In a sense, it is really not good policy for a merchant to be continually adding new brands of goods. It tends to increase the invested capital without giving proportionate profit. However, healthy human nature demands novelty and change. We like to make an occasional contribution to the little things, the sum of which make life worth while.

MARSHMALLOW CREME IS JUST WHAT THE NAME IMPLIES—A delicious confectionery cream of marshmallow flavor; suitable for cakes and candies, or any service where a cream filling or coating is desired. It is ready for instant use, and will keep indefinitely.

DROVE AWAY THE TOOTHACHE

In His Thirst for Revenge the Colonel Had No Time to Think of Physical Ailments.

One morning the colonel rolled out of his blankets with the jumping toothache, and, though he exhausted all the remedies in camp, nothing had any effect. It was 40 miles to the nearest town, with the chances against finding a dentist there, and it was finally decided to appeal to one of the cowboys on his station, five miles away. He came over in response to a message, and, after taking a look at the tooth, which was a double one on the upper jaw, the cowboy said:

"Kurnel, I kin shoot that tooth out as slick as grease if you don't mind the scar it will leave on your cheeks."

"Shoot it out!" shouted the colonel. "Why, man, you must be crazy."

"Wall, mebbe I kin pick in enough powder to blow it out."

"Never!"

"Might chuck it out with a piece of iron and a stone!' continued the cowboy.

"And you might go to Texas and beyond!" exclaimed the suffering and indignant man.

"I'm only telling you how we do it out here, and if you don't want that tooth out you'll hev to stand the pain."

The cowboy started for his station, but after a gallop of a mile he returned to beckon the rest of us aside and said:

"He seems to be a purty squar' sort of a man though a leetle techy and I'm sorry fur him. Is he a good rider?"

"Only fair."

"Kin he shoot?"

"Not very straight."

"Then I think I can cure that toothache."

He spent two minutes unfolding the plot and then went over to the sufferer and said:

"Kurnel, I've come back to say you ar' a booby."

"What," yelled the colonel, as he sprang up from his seat before the campfire.

"A booby and a squaw, kurnel, and likewise a durned old liar."

The colonel jumped for him, but the cowboy dodged and ran for his horse. We had another ready saddled with two loaded revolvers in the holsters, and the "booby" sprang into the saddle and gave chase. After getting out on the prairie half a mile the cowboy began to circle and shoot and yell, and the colonel followed him and shot away the whole 12 bullets without sending one within five feet of him. When the twelfth one had been fired the kind-hearted cowboy rode off at the top of his speed and the colonel came into camp to dismount and say:

"Get me a hundred cartridges and my own horse and I'll follow that man to the end of the earth."

"How's the toothache, colonel?" was asked.

"Toothache! Why, it's all gone, and I'll have that fellow's scalp if I have to stay out here all summer!"—Washington Herald.

No Use.

The civilians who volunteered the services of themselves and their motor cars to convey the Fatherland's holiday gifts to the German troops in the trenches at the front were summoned before a gray old Bavarian general to receive instructions as to their behavior in the enemy's country. The general explained to them that they might expect in passing through a village to be fired on by francs-tireurs, and added that the persons who fired the shots might not always be men entitled to bear arms.

"Take an example," said he, fixing his eagle eye upon one of the volunteers; "suppose you have entered a Belgian village, and while you are spinning along through the market square there is a lively fusillade directed at you from the surrounding houses. You turn toward your assailants and see nothing but empty windows. Only in the second story of one house an old woman is peering out. What would you do in that case, Mr. Meier?"

"I'd not look back," was the reply.

Limit Libations to Three.

There is a limit. The number of cocktails, highballs, fizzes, and other flavored and perfumed libations known to possess a slow, sinuous, undulating recoil action familiarly known as a "kick," that may be consumed at one sitting is just three. The three-round limit applies, however, to a relatively small zone of operations, but, nevertheless, a popular one.

The rule has been promulgated by a leading hotel for guidance of the frequenters of the public room known as the lounge, and which is most crowded during the afternoon tea hours. Since this room is designed for the special comfort of women, and no mere man can purchase anything in it unless he is escorting one or more of the fair sex, there is a suspicion that the rule had the women in view when designed. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Raw or Cooked?

Bacon—This paper says that the German beet crop this year is expected to produce not less than 2,500,000 tons of raw sugar.

Egbert—I should think it hot enough over there this year to produce the sugar cooked.

FATHER WAS ONE EXCEPTION

Characteristic Story of Make-Up of English Militants—Mrs. Blanc Was Easy on Everything.

Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the noted English suffragette, said the other day to a New York reporter.

"Your idea of militants is that we are vixens, tartars, man-haters. But, as a matter of fact, we have in our ranks some of the most elegant and fascinating women in London society.

"No, the militant is not like Mrs. Blanc, who said to her daughter one day:

"'I am certainly easy on shoes. Look at this pair of elastic sides. I've worn them three years, and they're still as good as new. I'm easy on clothes, too. There's my tweed—just as fresh as the day I bought it, seven years ago. And hats, gloves, stockings—in fact, I'm easy on everything.'"

"'Except father, eh?' said the daughter, without looking up from her book."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Fortunes of War.

"Wasn't your daughter engaged to a penniless duke?"

"She would have been, but he went to the front very suddenly."

"Well?"

"And he's made a hero of himself and saved a flag, and been wounded, and got a medal—and now there isn't a girl in the kingdom who wouldn't be glad to marry him."

"And that leaves Laura very little chance?"

"No chance at all."

NATURALLY.

She—I think your brother has such a courtly bearing.

He—No wonder. He's been a lawyer for nearly twenty years.

Old Enough.

"I understand Miss Whatyoumaycall is going to have a birthday party this evening," the fat plumber observed.

"Yep," answered the thin carpenter, "I've been invited."

"Did she keep her last birthday?"

"Yes, and I'll tell you in confidence I don't believe she ever intends to let go of it."

A Limit to Friendship.

"Say, Brinson, you'll take Smithers home, won't you? You see he's in no condition to get there alone. You live just around the corner. Lean him up against his door and ring the bell."

"Not me. You'll have to find some body else."

"What's the matter with you? You know Smithers."

"Yes, I know Smithers. And you bet your life I know his wife!"

Expensive Cheese.

"That is the way my economy schemes turn out."

"How now?"

"I wanted a bit of cheese to bait a mouse trap with. I thought I'd sneak a bit in yonder saloon."

"Well?"

"The gang caught me at it and I had to open a bottle of champagne."

Cause of the Chill.

"But, Captain Hawley," said the handsome Miss Plute coquettishly, "will you love me when I grow old and ugly?"

"My dear Miss Plute," answered the captain gallantly, "you may grow older, but you will never grow uglier."

And he wondered why their friendship ceased so suddenly.

The Opportunity.

Gabriel was just about to blow his trumpet.

"Hey, hold on there!" shouted a newly arisen spirit. "Wait till I get the movie men on the job."

Thus we see the continued need of photoplay censorship.

Sensible View.

"I say, Pat, why don't you go on a strike for more wages?" asked the inquisitive man of an Irish laborer.

"Faith," replied the son of Erin, "an' ef iver Oi go on a stroik, 'twill be whin Oi'm out ave a job an hove nothin' ilse ter do."

Of Course.

"Wombat complains that people don't keep the money in circulation."

"I don't see how he can substantiate that claim. Doesn't every man, as soon as he can raise sufficient money, put it into an automobile?"

Some System.

"He's a great man for system, isn't he?"

"I should say so. He even carries the ashes out of his cellar three times a week, instead of letting them accumulate."

HER HUMOROUS VIEW

Failed to Be Funny When Confronted With Facts, Not Gossip.

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was a piece of good luck for Robin Bennett.

The young city of Hillsdale was going to bring its water supply a distance of three miles and construct a reservoir, and it was his first job as a civil engineer.

It was a matter that interested the whole town—the taxpayers, because they had to pay the bills; the female population, because the coming of young Bennett almost at once gave rise to strange reports.

Gossip had it that he was a very rich man; that he was born dumb, and that later on he had been deafened by an explosion of dynamite. It said also that the girl he was to marry went back on him when that dynamite went off. She said that a husband who couldn't hear her say she loved him was no husband for her. And the story went on to the effect that owing to his misfortunes he had soured on the whole world and intended to commit suicide the day the reservoir was completed. There were a few other things that could be brought up for discussion when the above had been threshed out, and taken altogether Mr. Bennett was a valuable asset to the town of Hillsdale.

And not one single female, wife, widow, old maid or maiden, made one single effort to find out the truth or falsity of these reports. Of course not. A woman can weave a romance around even a reservoir, and this crowd continued to weave. There were 50 men who could have knocked that romance into a cocked hat, but they were not appealed to.

Mr. Bennett had his office near the river that was to be tapped, and boarded with a farmer, and thus gave the society of the town no opportunity to get acquainted with him. He had too much to think of and to do to care about society matters. The first inkling he had as to the gossip about him was in a street car. It was gossip between two young ladies. He had his notebook out and was making figures and puzzling over inlets, outlets, valves and siphons when the voice of one of the girls reached his ears.

"No," answered the other, "but they say he's quite good looking."

"And both deaf and dumb?"

"Yes."

"Isn't it too bad?"

"It certainly is."

"I wish some one that knew him would introduce us."

"You might invite him to call, but would he? And if he did, how could he talk with any of you?"

"I hadn't ought to say so, but I can't help but see the humorous side to it. Suppose he was courting a girl, and each had to have pencil and a pad. Instead of talking, he writes and she writes."

"A proposal in writing would look rather funny."

"It would that."

Mr. Bennett stole a furtive look at both, but was most impressed by the last speaker. He had carried an ideal for two or three years, and here it was. They were talking about him, but was he the man? He wasn't deaf and dumb, and he didn't boast of his good looks. He felt sure that the talk couldn't be about him, but was uneasy about it. Two hours later a resident of the town came into his office to make some inquiries.

"Do you know that you are a real blessing to the gossip of Hillsdale?"

"In what respect?"

"They have it that you are deaf and dumb."

"But I'm talking all day to a hundred men."

"Sure you are."

"And I'm hearing you very plainly now. How could they start such a yarn?"

"Oh, every town must have its romance. It's your keeping to yourself so much that gives color to the stories. You shouldn't let it bother you."

In making a short cut to town from the site of the reservoir, one had to pass the residence of Judge Brewster, and one day as he made the trip the young engineer had seen a young lady ensconced among the plants and vines of the veranda. He had not stared at her, but he had caught the face well enough to wonder if he hadn't met it on a street car. It would be the one that said she saw humor in the situation. So did Mr. Bennett—after thinking things over.

At two o'clock one afternoon Miss Gracie Brewster sat on the veranda reading a book. She was so interested that the first thing she knew of a stranger's presence was his step on the gravel. He had pencil and pad in his hand and, after lifting his hat, he handed them up to her. On the pad was written:

"I am deaf and dumb. Is this place for sale?"

The girl received the pad, and wrote:

"I haven't heard father say anything about selling."

Then he wrote:

"How long since the last earthquake here?"

"Why, we never had one here," wrote the girl as she turned away her head to smile.

"I am somewhat of a naturalist, and may I be so bold as to ask if you ever saw any nine-legged grasshoppers around here?"

This time the girl smiled before she could turn her head, and what she wrote was:

"I have never counted the number of legs a grasshopper has."

"Sorry—very sorry," the pencil made him say. "A nine-legged grasshopper is worth $5,000 to any museum of natural history. Perhaps you may have noticed a red robin?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"Sorry—very sorry. King Peter of Servia has the only one ever seen thus far and he values it at $20,000."

The pad was handed back this time without any message. Miss Gracie wanted to be obliging to an unfortunate stranger, but she had a slight suspicion that nine-legged grasshoppers and red robins belonged to the "guy" family." She therefore turned to her chair, and the stranger raised his hat and took his departure. The girl lost interest in her book almost at once.

"Why, he should have handed me his card—of course he should!" was exclaimed after a little pondering; and she ran away to the kitchen to ask of the colored cook:

"Mammy, did you ever hear of a nine-legged grasshopper?"

"Go away, chil'," was the reply.

"But did you?"

"No, nor anybody else. What would a hopper be doin' wid five extra legs? He ain't no fule, he ain't."

"But did you ever hear of a red robin?"

"Befo' de Lawd, no, no mo' dan I eber heard of a green goose! Sumbody has been makin' a joke on you."

"Why should he—why should he?" mused Miss Gracie as she returned to the veranda.

It was one of the aldermen of the town who said to his wife and daughter a month later:

"I have got to know Mr. Bennett of the reservoir works well enough to pronounce him a fine young man. He isn't very busy just now, and I think it would be very nice to have a few at dinner and let him get acquainted."

"Why, father," answered the daughter, "they say you can't get him in society."

"He has surely been a very busy man up to now."

"But his misfortunes."

"What misfortunes?"

"Why, he is deaf and dumb!"

"So's your granny! I wish I could hear and talk as well as he does. Where on earth did you get hold of such a yarn as that?"

"The girls have been talking about it for weeks."

"The geese! You and mother arrange about that dinner right away. I'm in want of a son-in-law just like Mr. Bennett."

It was to be a dinner for twelve, and the name of Miss Gracie led. She was told that she was likely to meet a stranger to Hillsdale, and no more. By this time Mr. Bennett had discovered that Judge Brewster owned the fine residence which he had passed a score of times; that the judge had a good-looking daughter to whom it was more than likely he had played the "dummy." Had the alderman hinted that she would be at the dinner the young man would have invented a dozen excuses to decline the invitation.

The alderman's daughter hadn't quite let go of the idea that Mr. Bennett was deaf and dumb, but she had to when he arrived and began to talk. His hearing was remarkably keen, and he had a very pleasant voice.

Then Miss Gracie stood before him, and the alderman's daughter made the introduction.

Then there was a look of puzzlement—another of recognition—and Miss Gracie sweetly queried:

"Have you pad and pencil with you?"

"Sorry to say I haven't," was the answer.

"You should always carry them. I wanted to ask you if it hurt very much when you recovered your voice and hearing?"

"Not so—so very much."

"Did you begin to look for a nine-legged grasshopper at once?"

"Not at once, but very soon."

"After that, did you have the good fortune to capture a red robin?"

"No, but I'm still hopeful."

"Mr. Bennett," began the girl as she drew herself up with great dignity.

"Oh, but on the street car with a young lady one day a few weeks ago you said you were inclined to take a humorous view of my misfortune."

For a minute she clung to her dignity, and then she smiled and said: "We will both take that view of it!"

The Hillsdale reservoir was finished long since, but it was only a few months ago that Miss Brewster became Mrs. Bennett.

What Vinegar Will Do.

Vinegar works like magic in cleaning dirt and smoke from walls and woodwork. Put some in a basin, wet a flannel cloth in it and wipe the article that needs cleaning. When the cloth becomes soiled, wash it out in clear water before putting it in the vinegar again. It will remove flyspecks from woodwork, picture frames, windows and so forth. It will soften an old paintbrush on which paint has been allowed to dry. Heat some vinegar to the boiling point and allow the brush to simmer in it for a few minutes. Remove and wash well in strong soapsuds and the brush will be like new. If the hands become chapped or roughened after having them in water for a long time, rinse them well and apply a little vinegar, letting it dry on.

TIME'S MANY CHANGES

OLD-TIMER BECOMES REMINISCENT ON THE SUBJECT.

Extinction of the Wild Pigeon on a Par With That of the Buffalo—But the Sparrow Still Is With Us.

"Time does change the order of things," said one of a number of elderly men who were gathered in a grocery store over at the Cape one evening last week, "and some of the changes that are hardly noticed or even known by most of the younger people of today are in many ways remarkable.

"Take, for instance, the wild pigeon that was to be found in almost every patch of woods in the state when I was a boy; there is not one to be found in the entire country east or west of the Rockies today, and one of the departments at Washington has offered a large reward for anyone who will produce or tell where a nest of the wild pigeons can be found.

"As I said they were very plentiful in these parts back in the '50s and many were found in the '60s and early '70s, but today not one can be found in the United States. The cause of all this lies in the fact that many people carried on the business of trapping them and out in Scarboro a man by the name of Plummer did this to such an extent that he came to be known as 'Pigeon Dave' Plummer. The traps were so arranged that hundreds of the birds would be caught at one spring of the trap, and when one comes to think that this business was carried on all over the country, it is easy to see how in years their numbers dwindled and finally died out altogether."

"On the other hand," said another of the party, "comparatively a few years ago we had never heard of such a bird as the English sparrow, and today they are as thick as white weed in a poor man's pasture."

"Speaking of white weed," said the first speaker, "reminds me of the time I went to school way up on what is now Highland avenue, and white weed was just making its appearance in the fields. It was not very plentiful, however, and I remember that a farmer named Dyer told us boys that he would give us a cent a dozen for all we could pick in his field, for by that means it was kept from going to seed. Look at the fields nowadays. If one could get a cent a dozen for it now, a person could get rich in the course of a couple of years and not have to work but a week or two each year at that. Yes, sir, there have been many changes in such things as these during the last 20 or more years, and are still going on."—Portland Express and Advertiser.

Science Museum.

Several groups of objects of special interest as illustrating appliances used in war by sea, land, and air have been brought together in two rooms in the Science museum, South Kensington, London. Perhaps the most striking of these are the series of models of types of British warships and of British and foreign aircraft. Among the former are models of several well-known ships, including a model of his majesty's ship Good Hope and one of the dreadnaught battleship his majesty's ship Monarch, the latter recently added to the collection on loan. Submarines are represented by drawings and photographs. With several of the models in the aeroplane section there are full-size engines and parts. The enemy's aircraft are represented by a general model of the Rumpler-Taube monoplane, which was the chief German army machine at the beginning of the war, and a diagram drawing of a Zeppelin.

Jam and "Bully Beef" for British.

The amount of jam that the British soldier is eating on this campaign has attracted the notice of all the foreign newspaper correspondents, American, Belgian and French, who have seen for the first time the British soldier in war. The supply of this particular delicacy seems to have been unlimited. With jam, "bully beef," biscuits and tea, the British soldier seems able to go anywhere and do anything. No doubt jam is excellent food and, to a certain extent, I fancy that it replaces fresh vegetables. The first campaign in which jam played a noticeable part was the second Boer war.

In Peninsular and Crimean days freshly killed beef and biscuits were usual rations of the troops; but the traveling field kitchens on wheels which now accompany all regiments and batteries have improved the British soldier's lot.—Exchange.

A Good Name.

All great men have children named after them. There was a time in America when Washington and Jefferson enjoyed, at the baptismal font, a standing not less regular than that of John, or Henry, or James. Now it appears that Frenchmen, instead of naming their boys Philippe, Gaston, Antoine, are calling them Joffre. Figures gathered in one town show that between August 2 and December 15 no less than twenty-one fathers of families bestowed this name upon their sons. A plumber in the same town desired to have his little daughter called Joffrette. But the town clerk declined to admit the name to the official register. "And yet," says a French commentator, "it's a pretty name enough!"

PROVED CLEVER SPY

Baden-Powell Tells of One of His Experiences.

Equipped as a Butterfly Hunter English Officer Obtained Complete Plans of the Forts That Commanded City of Cattaro.

In the British army we do not make a very wide use of field spies in service, though their partial use at maneuvers has shown what they can do. My own work has been largely that of a tactical or military agent, whose business is to study details of armament and equipment in peace time. Now that the war is in progress and many of the methods of spies have been disclosed, there is no harm in going more fully into the subject.

It was once my business to investigate the forts commanding Cattaro, capital of Dalmatia—their positions, strength and armaments. The city lies at the head of a narrow loch some fifteen miles long, in a deep trough between mountains. High above, the mountaintops are studded with batteries—from which, during the present war, Cattaro has been repeatedly bombarded.

I went armed with most effective weapons for the purpose, which have served me well in many a similar campaign. They were a sketch book, with numerous pictures—some finished, others only partly done—of butterflies of every degree and rank, from a "Red Admiral" to a "Painted Lady;" a color box, and a butterfly net. I was "hunting butterflies," and thus equipped I was ready to meet anyone on the lonely mountainside, even in the neighborhood of the forts.

Quite innocently, with my sketch book in hand, I would ask whether he had seen such-and-such a butterfly in the neighborhood, as I was anxious to catch one. Ninety-nine out of a hundred did not know one butterfly from another—any more than I do—so I was on fairly safe ground, and they thoroughly sympathized with the mad Englishman who was hunting these curious insects.

They did not look sufficiently closely into the sketches to notice that the delicately drawn veins of the butterflies' wings were exact representations, in plan, of their own fort, and that the spots on the wings denoted the number and position of the guns and their different calibers.

These are usual enough tactics for an English spy. Sometimes, instead of a butterfly, it is the veining of a leaf in a botanist's notebook that hides the important military details, sometimes the convolutions of a stained glass window. In any case, the reputation of being a "mad Englishman" is a genuine asset in spying. —Sir Robert Baden-Powell in Everybody's Magazine.

Where Responsibility Ends.

During the time of the Boer war, a letter had been received by the sergeant major in an artillery regiment from the war office with reference to one Gunner Brown, who, reported dead, had arrived at Woolwich. Could a full and satisfactory explanation of same be forwarded? The noncom. thereupon sought the officer commanding the battery, who dictated the following reply:

"Brown was an old comrade of mine, I visited him when dying, and afterwards attended his funeral. Hence, I know that he is dead, and am considerably surprised to hear of his return to Woolwich, but please exonerate me from further blame, inasmuch as I am not responsible for his subsequent movements."

Sermons With "Points."

Canon Hannay maintains that nowadays the most dramatic sermons are preached in Ireland. A friend of his heard a preacher in a Connaught village expatiating on the terrors of hell.

"The lion will roar at yez," he told the congregation. "The owls will hoot at yez, the sarpints will hiss at yez, and the hyenas will laugh yez to scorn."

Another Irish preacher, having described how Jezebel painted her face, decked her head, and looked out of the window at Jehu, remarked:

"And would you believe it the hussy was nigh on sixty years of age?"

Nothing to Be Thankful For.

Those favored few who, by their rank or their riches, are exempted from all exertion, have no reason to be thankful for the privilege. It was the observation of this necessity that led the ancients to say that the gods sold us everything but gave us nothing.—Charles Colton.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Pickles will never become moldy if you put a tiny bag of mustard in the top of the receptacle in which they are kept?

If your silk dress looks rusty you can revive it by sponging it with water in which potatoes have been boiled?

Mice can be most successfully exterminated if you stuff all their holes with a piece of rag which has been dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper?

A very quick way to cool a hot liquid is to pass it through a clean cloth saturated with cold water? And if the liquor is soup no trace of grease will remain?

If you lay your silver away in common flour it will remain bright for some time?

You can warm over meat much more quickly if you wrap it in greased paper? The steam will prevent the meat from becoming hard and dry?

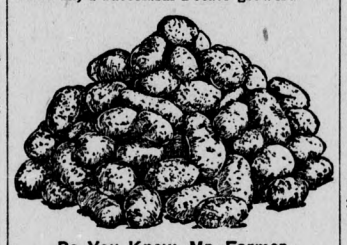
Perspiration stains can be removed from a thin shirtwaist by soaking it in cold water, to which you have added a little sodium bicarbonate before it has been washed?

There is a new square meshed veiling that is much liked?

A POTATO ROMANCE

"If I were a farmer boy, or a boy without capital, and wanted an early competency, I'd start right out growing Potatoes," said Henry Schroeder, the Potato king of the Red River Valley, whose story in the John A. Salzer Seed Co.'s Catalogue reads stranger than a romance.

That advice of Mr. Schroeder's, the self-made Potato king, comes from a warm heart, a level head, an active hand, and above all, a successful Potato grower!



Do You Know, Mr. Farmer,

there is more money in five acres of Potatoes year in and year out than in anything you can grow on your farm, and the growing of Potatoes now, with present machinery, etc., is easy. It's regular Fourth of July fun!

Salzer's Creations in Seed Corn put Wisconsin on the Corn Map with its astonishing yields!

Marriage.

Voltaire, in his "Philosophical Dictionary," says: "The more married men you have the fewer crimes there will be. Examine the frightful columns of your criminal calendar; you will find there a hundred youths executed to one father of a family. Marriage renders men more virtuous and more wise. The father of a family is not willing to blush for his children; he is afraid to make shame their inheritance.'

Afraid of Kidney Trouble--- The Remedy.

In 1908 I was taken very sick with kidney trouble and being afraid, I went to a prominent physician at Libertyville, Iowa. After doctoring for some time without cure or relief I began the use of Swamp-Root and found immediate relief. After using several bottles which I bought of Jericho's Drug Store of Fairfield, Iowa, I became a well man and can honestly say that I have never had any signs or a return of any Kidney trouble. I am so grateful toward your medicine that I never hesitate to recommend it to anyone I know who is suffering with Kidney trouble.

Yours very truly,

Drain and stir it into a fritter batter. Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat.

Splendid Medicine Stomach Trouble

I Suffered for Several Years Peruna Restored My Health

Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, No. 508 Twelfth St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I am pleased to endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered for several years. I took it for several months and at the end of that time found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies.

Over Ten Years Ago.

"I would not be without Peruna. Although it was over ten years ago that I first gave you my testimonial, I am of the same opinion as when I wrote it, and give you the privilege to use it as you see fit. I still use Peruna when I think it necessary. I am recommending it to my neighbors whenever a chance occurs."

Resinol ointment and resinol soap also clear away pimples, blackheads, and dandruff. Sold by all druggists. Adv.

Epitaph Misinterpreted.

A neighbor's little daughter, after looking for some time at Shakespeare's epitaph, which hung over the professor's fireplace, ran home. "Oh, mamma!" she said, "the B——s have the strangest sign in their living room. It says, 'For God's sake don't disturb the dust.'"—Boston Transcript.

Creamed Apple Tart.

Line a small, deep pudding dish with a rich pastry, peel and slice in carefully one and one-half pints of tart apple, with just a dust of nutmeg, three-fourths cupful brown sugar and grated rind and juice of one-half lemon. Cover with crust and bake until done. Lift the crust and pour in pint of rich boiled custard. Replace crust and serve cold. This is a very old-fashioned Dutch dish and is delicious. Whipped cream is very nice in place of the custard, but if cream is used heap it up high and do not replace the upper crust.

To Reduce Weight.

If you are too stout don't take fat reducing medicines. Cut down on your diet, get out-of-door exercise and you will assume normal lines and reduce to normal weight. Avoid sweets, eggs, cream, fat meats and especially potatoes. Live mainly on lettuce, spinach, cabbage, lean meats, young onions, celery, tomatoes, etc. Take salted toast instead of bread and butter. If you cease to give your body fat-making foods you will cease creating fat cells. It is no trick to reduce if you practice self-denial.

Hot-Water Chocolate Cake.

Two tablespoonfuls butter, one cupful sugar, yolk of one egg, two tablespoonfuls cocoa dissolved in one-half cupful boiling water, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one-half cupful boiling water, one teaspoonful of baking powder, sifted with one and one-half cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Mix in order given and bake in square tin about thirty minutes. Frost with white of egg beaten stiff. Boil one cupful sugar in little water till it hairs, then turn on egg and beat till stiff.

Bad Physical Sign.

The sudden cessation of pain is often as bad a sign as its beginning. In appendicitis or some other acute inflammation of the right side of the abdomen sudden cessation of pain may be of the gravest import, particularly if not associated with a corresponding drop in the temperature or pulse rate. Under such circumstances it is an unfailing index of gangrene or rupture of the appendix or of a breaking down of the barriers between an abscess and the general peritoneal cavity.

Are You Suffering From Auto-Intoxication?

The dictionary says that Auto-Intoxication is "poisoning, or the state of being poisoned, from toxic, substances produced within the body." This is a condition due to the stomach, bowels, kidneys, liver, or pores of the body failing to throw off the poisons. More than 50% of adults are suffering from this trouble. This is probably why you are suffering from nervousness, headaches, loss of appetite, lack of ambition, and many other symptoms produced by Auto-Intoxication. Your whole system needs stirring up.

Trick of Cuckoo and Cowbird.

The English cuckoo, like the American cowbird, leaves its single egg in the nests of birds much smaller than itself, like the hedge sparrow, the pied wagtail and the meadow pipit. When the young cuckoo—a veritable giant in comparison with its nestmates—is a few days old it pushes its companions out of the nest, and then becomes the sole object of the care of its tiny foster parents.

All Blood Disorders Quickly Driven Away

Astonishing Results With the Greatest Blood Purifier Ever Discovered.

Strength, Power, Accomplishment are all Typified in S. S. S.

Some blood disorders become deeply rooted in the glands and tissues, and the mistake is made of resorting to drastic drugs. These only aggravate by causing other and worse troubles. A host of people know this to be true. They know from painful experience.

To get right down into where the blood is vitiated requires S. S. S. the greatest blood purifier ever discovered.

This remarkable remedy contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment and the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well balanced-health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses and kindred troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that this poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

Then, too, S. S. S. has such specific stimulation on these local cells as to preserve their mutual welfare and a proper relative assistance to each other.

In a very brief time S. S. S. has the reconstructive process so under control that remarkable changes are obseved. All eruptive places heal, mysterious pains and aches have disappeared, and from head to foot there is a conscious sensation of renewed health.

From the fact that S. S. S. is purely a botanical preparation, it is accepted by the weakest stomach and has great tonic influence. Not one drop of drugs or minerals is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice upon any matter concerning the blood and skin write to The Swift Specific Co., 205 Swift Bldg, Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "Just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all counterfeits.

Detecting Erasures.

If paper upon which erasures of writing have been made is exposed to the vapor of iodine the roughened surface takes a different tint from that portion which has not been tampered with. If the erasure has been lightly made, only the ink or pencil lead being rubbed away and the mark left in the fiber of the paper, iodine vapor causes the writing to reappear. This is because wherever the paper has been roughened more iodine is absorbed than by a smooth surface. This test is effective within three months after the making of the alteration.—Exchange.

No Bargain.

The strap had been applied to a five-year-old unruly.

"Now, the next time I have to punish you," said the stern parent, "you will go to bed for a day in the bargain."

Whereupon the weeping unruly observed:

"Is that what you call a bargain?"—Detroit Times.

Relieving His Feelings.

"Father, don't men call themselves bachelors before they get married?"

"Yes, my boy."

"And what do they call themselves after, dad?"

"Hush! It isn't fit for little boys to know."—Exchange.

THE GARDEN IN WINTER.

Little Remains to Be Done Outdoors at This Season.

Little remains to be done outdoors, no more indeed, than just enough to give us the needed exercise and an occasional sniff of the clear, bracing winter air, says the American Cultivator. The fields are frozen or likely to freeze up solid any day. Just as soon as that happens we cover the strawberry patch with a protecting coat of some coarse litter. This should be entirely free from weed seeds. I know of nothing better than clear marsh hay, and I like to have it put on reasonably thick, at least between the rows, with a lighter covering over the plants themselves. There are some winters in which some protection is not necessary, the snow staying on from early winter until spring right along and making a satisfactory and sufficient covering. The good gardener, however, does not depend on the vagaries and uncertainties of the season. It seldom fails to pay well to apply the mulch at this time, especially as we need it anyway in spring and during the fruiting season.

In open weather the plowing of the garden patches may be continued where not already finished, and mild days come handy for gathering up old vines, brush and rubbish of all sorts, to be burned at an early date. We try to leave no hiding places for insect foes and nothing that may contain the spores of fungous diseases. Among this rubbish we include the trimmings of grapevines, old raspberry and blackberry canes, trimmings of currant and gooseberry bushes, etc. All these bush fruits may be pruned during mild weather from fall until spring. We like to do this early and thoroughly.

The garden needs manure, needs it every year, and the application may be made at any time. Whenever you happen to come across a load of really good old compost or can get a load of the sweepings of the blacksmith shop or poultry manure or some ashes or other materials that will answer the purpose, now or at any time during the winter, the best place for it is the garden. Scatter it rather freely over the plowed ground, frozen or not (as it may happen to be), and thus leave it to be plowed under in spring.

SCRUTINIZE SEED POTATOES.

Department of Agriculture Issues a Warning to Farmers.

The farmers of New Jersey, middle Atlantic states and the southern states are warned by the United States department of agriculture to see that the seed potatoes they buy bear the white label of the potato inspection service of this department. This label is placed on each container and certifies that the potatoes have been examined by federal inspectors and found free from powdery scab; that they were grown on farms free from and have not in any way been exposed to this disease.

Farmers are warned against the use of table potatoes for planting purposes, as these, even though they do not show the disease, may have been exposed to powdery scab. Table potatoes are usually shipped from Maine in bulk, and the car carries a blue certification tag, while seed potatoes are in sacks or other containers of a capacity not to exceed 180 pounds, and each container is separately certified.

Some dealers have been buying table stock and selling it for seed. These men are not violating any law, but they are exposing their customers to the risk of the introduction of a dangerous disease and a quarantine should the powdery scab be introduced.

The white seed certificate relates only to freedom from powdery scab, but potatoes so certified are likely to be of better quality and less mixed than table stock potatoes. The supply of certified seed potatoes in Maine is ample, and the price this year is low, so that there is no excuse for planting table stock potatoes.

The department also states that the rigid inspection and other precautions thrown around certified seed stock from quarantined districts make such stock as safe as potatoes from non-infected areas and often better selected.

Methods of Handling Silage.

The Nebraska experiment station advises several conveniences in handling feed from upright, pit and partial pit silos. A handy and easily constructed convenience is the silage cart. Any farmer with saw, hammer, nails and lumber can construct one of these carts. The wheels used may be plow wheels or other small wheels. In constructing the cart the capacity should be considered. It should be borne in mind that loose silage weighs about 18½ pounds the cubic foot.

When considerable outside feeding is done a swing track is oftentimes used in the west. This makes it possible to distribute feed in a radius of considerable circle. Some farmers use a stationary track. Where twin silos are used and it is necessary to carry feed to any distance a U shaped chute inclining downward toward the wagon and occupying the space between the silos is used. The sides of this chute are angular like a V, but there is a flat bottom.

THINGS are warming up in the school election. J. E. Palmer, who was put forward by friends has withdrawn from the race. C. E. DeSelle is a candidate for the Grammar School trustee as is also E. C. Merrill who is being run by a host of friends. John Blaine is being run for re-election. With these three candidates in the field some little excitement of a friendly nature is expected this afternoon. Marshall Ross and Joun F. Duncan are candidates for re-election to the High School board with no opposition.

CALIFORNIA, that has always held her head high and prided herself on her hospitality, is permitting one of the most unbecoming and unforgivable breaches of Etiquette ever perpetrated. Here this big hearted state has invited the world to see the fair and has spent millions of dollars to make the result—a lasting compliment and advertisement for our big hearted way of doing things for our visitors. In the California building where the world visitors are going daily to see the remarkable exhibits of the Counties of the state, rest rooms, so necessary to sight seers, are conveniently located about the balcony, but as one passes along he sees the sigh "For men (or women) of—— County only." Is that the standard of California's hospitality? Are the people of this state such exclusive snobs? No, that is not California style, and the officials of the state and county exhibits should see that such signs are immediately removed and "Rest Room For You" substituted.

Local and Personal

Re-elect John D. Blaine for Grammar School Trustee.—Adv.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McVea, March 25, a son.

Mrs. Gratton and sons left yesterday for a vacation at Seabright in the Ainsley cottage.

Miss Ella Young of San Jose spent yesterday in Campbell with her brother, H. S. Young.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy moved yesterday, and are now living with Mrs. Mary Palmer on north First St.

A. B. Chaffers and family have moved into the house on north Central Avenue, immediately beyond the Campbell Realty office.

E. N. Sharp and family of Tracy arrived Sunday and are spending the week with grandpa and grandma Sharp on Harrison avenue.

Mrs. Emily Charles who visited Mrs. E. Davidson for several days has taken rooms with Mrs. Gilman and will remain in Campbell for some time.

The friends of E. C. Merrill have prevailed upon him to consent to the use of his name as a candidate for Campbell Grammar School trustee. Your support is earnestly solicited.—Adv.

A pick-up team of town players crossed bats Wednesday afternoon with a mixed aggregation of the High School boys. Owing to wet grounds and the indisposition of the players the laurels went to the High School with a score of 13-7.

J. W. Tawney has returned from San Andreas where he has closed a deal for 160 acres of land. Henry is busy building an addition on the house in readiness for the arrival of the family. They expect to move within a couple of weeks.

Geo. S. Robson delivered the last of a car-load of lemon and orange trees this week. This was the second car delivered here by him this season numbering almost 1700 trees. Many trees were sold in this vicinity by P. B. Payne and other agents.

E. C. Merrill was a business visitor to San Francisco this week and took in some of the Jewel City sights. Mr. Merrill, in anticipation of future excitement and possible trouble, declared to a Press representative yesterday morning that he was "not a candidate for school trustee under any consideration for I have bought a Kissel-Kar 3½ ton delivery truck and will have my hands full engineering that."

Postmaster

Every time we hear anyone "raking" the postmaster we always feel sorry that the public cannot come to a realization of his thousand and one worries. And he's "raked" more or less every day.

The "general delivery" window we imagine, is the nightmare of every postmaster. One who has never taken the trouble to give the matter a little thought may think it strange to be told there is no mail for them, when the postmaster or clerk "does not look to see." The probabilities are that he, or she, has looked through that box fifty times since the last mail came in. Parents, thoughtlessly permit their children to call for mail, and when this is done, the children abuse the privilege. Take a family with three or four children in school, many times each one of them will call for their mail at the general delivery window and not half an hour apart. In such cases the person waiting on that window well knows there is no mail for the family in question and he, or she, is not going to look through the mail in such cases. Often the children lose mail. They should not be sent for it when it is possible to get it in any other way.

Older persons too, sometimes insinuate the postmaster or clerk is discourteous, even hinting that they think they have mail, or at least cannot understand why it isn't there for them. Nothing could be more ridiculous. Mail accumulates fast and we feel sure the postmaster and employees are glad to see it leave the postoffice as quickly as possible after receipt.

We don't think we should care to be "postmaster."—Ex.

Special Pre-Easter Services

The meetings at the Congregational church so far have been very fine indeed, and give splendid promise to be even better. A new speaker each night gives a bit of variety which is interesting and very helpful. Fine audiences have greeted each speaker, even Monday and Tuesday evenings in spite of the rain. The beautiful bunch of carnations sent the pastor from a hot house in Placer County, has added to the services also.

The talk Tuesday night by Mr. Cowles on his trip to Jerusalem was especially fine, the only trouble was the speaker could not forget the clock! The large audience wanted him to continue. L. D. Rathbone will speak this (Friday) evening.

Debaters Busy

The final championship debate will be held between Campbell and San Jose teams on April 17th. The Campbell affirmative team is composed of Laura Dunning and Frank Mendel, Leslie Le Montagne, alternate: the negative team, Evelyn Spellman and Charles Brandenburg, Dorothy Feathers, alternate. The affirmative team debates at home in each case.

The question is: "Resolved, that three-fourths of the jury shall be competent to render a decision in all criminal cases."

Methodist Church Notes

Mr. Frank Graves is acting as Sunday-school superintendent at the request of the pastor until the next meeting of the Sunday-School board.

We are having very good attendance and interest in the special Holy Week services every evening at the church.

Mrs. Bessie Kennedy will lead the League meeting Sunday evening. In order that those who attend may have good seats for the cantata in the evening service, the league meeting will be held this week in the auditorium. The following special numbers will be presented: Piano Solo by Mrs. Arends; Wordsworth's "Ode to Immortality," by Mr. Snow; Vocal Solo by Mrs. James Moyle; and an Easter Story, by May Farley.

Mr. Lloyd will deliver an Easter sermon Sunday morning, and there will be special music by the choir. In the evening the time usually taken by the sermon will be given to the sacred cantata, "The King Triumphant," which our singers have been preparing for some weeks under the direction of Mr. Kammerer.

Remember the Sunday-School collection on Easter is for Missions. Let every class do its best. We should have $25.00 in that collection.

The official board will meet at the close of prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

Our annual Roll Call is scheduled for Friday evening of next week, April 9th. Former pastors and absent members are being communicated with that they may, if unable to be present, send some word of greeting. Supper will be served at 6:30, and the program will begin at 8:00.

Christian Science Services

in Odd Fellows' Hall every Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock. Subject for April 4th. is "Unreality." Sunday-School at 12:15. The public is cordially invited.

CALIFORNIA has more gold in her treasury vaults today than ever before in her history. There are today $5,200,000 in gold coin in the vaults at the Capitol in Sacramento, put up in bags of $25,000 each. These bags weigh about 100 pounds each. Beside this there are millions in the banks about the state drawing from 2 to 2½ per cent interest.

Trees or Boys?

Not long ago as I passed by the beautifully green grounds, on which our Campbell library stands, I saw 8 or 10 boys playing foot ball and having such a good time.

I passed that way a few days later and the boys were playing in the street. I said, "Why aren't you playing over there on that grassy place instead of out here in the way of Automobiles." And one of them answered, "they told us to stay out, 'cause we would kill the trees."

The trees, I noticed have been protected several feet down, from the gophers, by placing a close wire netting around the roots.

A few dollars spent to protect the part above ground, so the children will not be deprived of such a nice place to play, would be well spent. We want the shrubbery and boys both to grow.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Next Sunday is Easter! Some one has said this will be the "Greatest Easter for 2000 years." Surely all will want to attend Easter Services some where—in the church of their choice.

If you have no other place to worship you are invited to join with us in any or of all our Easter Services. The Pastor will speak in the morning on "Our Easter Message." Easter is a beautiful time to come out strongly for "The New Life," and opportunity will be given in the morning to those wishing to join the Church, quite a class is ready.

Sunday-School and Endeavor at the usual times, but with appropriate exercises for each. The Pastor will lead the C. E. meeting.

At 7:30 will be our Annual "Special Easter Service" for the Masonic Fraternity. All Masons and their families are cordially invited to attend. Reserved seats will be held till after 7.30.

Come, and A Cordial Welcome to You.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
